Beschreibung:

Introducing Lacie Mae (AHH1904), an extraordinary alpaca that represents the pinnacle of quality and genetic excellence. At 5 years old, Lacie Mae is among the top two females born in her year, setting her apart as a standout individual.

Lacie Mae is not just show-worthy; she is a show-stopper. Her fleece is adorned with a stunning high frequency crimp that will leave judges and onlookers in awe. The remarkable consistency and uniformity of her crimp pattern, combined with an incredibly low micron count, create a luxuriously soft handle that is second to none. Add to that the superb density of her fleece, and you have a winning combination that is sure to impress.

But Lacie Mae's appeal goes beyond her fleece. With her tall and graceful stature, she exudes elegance and presence. Her impressive frame is a canvas for her remarkable fleece, ensuring that she catches the eye of all who see her.

What truly sets Lacie Mae apart is her excellent genetics. With a lineage that speaks of careful breeding and superior traits, she carries the potential to pass on her exceptional qualities to future generations.

If you're in search of an alpaca that embodies excellence in every aspect, look no further than Lacie Mae. Contact us today to secure this extraordinary female and add her outstanding genetic legacy to your herd. Prepare to make a lasting impression in the show ring and beyond with Lacie Mae by your side.
