Description:

Willowbrook Roman is a mischievous solid dark fawn son of Beck Brow The Instigator, who won Champion Brown male at the National Show in 2022. He is an intact juvenile huacaya male alpaca, who is not one to be left out, and can always be found where the fun is!!

The Instigator has again stamped his mark upon this sweet young male, who has perfect conformation, strong bone, and a desirable cute fluffy head! Another distinctive characteristic is his abundance of fleece that is very long stapled and dense, as well as being beautifully soft to handle.

Importantly, Roman has a lovely temperament and as such would make a wonderful companion animal. He is currently being halter trained for ease of handling.

Although he is being offered for sale as a non-breeding male, his fleece is of a high quality and would be ideal for someone who has an interest in utilising his annual clip for spinning into a beautiful yarn for knitting, or used for crafting.

Alpacas must be kept in a herd of preferably three or more for their own well-being. We would ideally like to sell Roman as part of an established group along with some of his other field companions. See other listings from Willowbrook Alpacas for details. A good discount is offered if a number of males are purchased together.
