Description:

Decadence is out of my multi Champion Black female Midnight Mystery (Champion Black with her senior fleece in 2019). She grows a really good staple length, and has very good fleece coverage. She has had some nice cria, with the same long staple and coverage, and has produced a true black when paired with fawn, and a modern grey with a brown. She has never been to a black, but she wants to throw colour. Her cria have all been attractive, and have all had long, dense, crimped fleeces, with great coverage. Her modern grey male from last year is a very good looking male with a lovely, very soft handling fleece. There is a picture of him and of his fleece on alpacaseller.

Decadence has always fallen pregnant easily, birthed unaided, and grown her cria well. We repeated the mating she had last year to Beck Brow The Instigator, a National Show Champion Brown male sired by Beck Brow on the Money.
