Description:

Ezra used to be one of our stud males and was castrated in April '24 as we have had a change in circumstances and won't be needing his services as a breeder anymore.

He has settled into pet-boy life very quickly and we now keep him without any issues in a field of boys as young as 9months old (at least they were when we first tried it!) as well as our golden oldies.

Pre-castration, he was quite bolshy with other males but that side of him is now all gone except for when he feels trapped in too small a pen/trailer (never towards humans though, only other males!) so we simply make sure he has enough personal space at all times when caught and he is happy!

Ezra is fully halter trained and has been out and about with us mere weeks after breeding season in the past, behaving impeccably and charming everyone.

He is perfectly behaved on the halter, is one of our faster walkers and has helped us halter-train youngsters in the past. We haven't been involved in events/walking etc in a few years and now that we aren't breeding anymore either, have simply no need for Ezra anymore. We have been downsizing our little herd for a few months now as we agister and pay our fab agister per animal - it gets expensive very quickly!

He will only be sold into a pre-existing or newly-formed herd of at least three males.

Please contact me if you have any questions or would like to meet Ezra in person.
